Brigitte Gabrielle was born and raised a Maronite Christian in Lebanon, but spent her formative years hiding with her parents in a bomb shelter. She watched her country being destroyed by extremist Muslims intent on Jihad and intent on the triumph of dar-al Islam.

Brigitte's history is compelling. She was raised in a culture that was mostly tolerant and westernized -- to the point of being almost too tolerant of those who are intolerant themselves.

This openness and tolerance and multiculturalist ideal for which the Lebanese prided themselves was in many ways the road to Lebanon's ruin. The free and open society the Lebanese once prided themselves for having is now, in effect, gone - taken over and dominated by Islamo-fascist elements (currently Hezbollah) who hold the majority of the country, and it's government, hostage.

Brigitte reminds us (and teaches those who don't know) that the culture of radical Islam is truly incompatible with that of Western culture and Western ideals. Islam glorifies death and destruction in the name of Islam, and submission to the will of Allah as proclaimed by the religious leadership.

There are those in the U.S. who do NOT want to recognize the truth and who do NOT want to recognize the threat we are facing. These people continually choose to ignore all the evidence that confronts them and ignore and denigrate those that speak the truth and share their stories.

The author's words of warning should be heeded. It seems those in the West continually ignore the Islamists' continual shouts of hatred and unequivocal warnings to achieve their goals of Islamic rule in addition to ignoring their continual attacks of war. The Islamists continually state their aims and act on it while the West-- at the risk of our own demise-- continually ignores the evidence that proves the Islamists are doing exactly what they say they are doing and will continue to do until their goal is achieved. >>
